TO THE 'UNSUNGS'. . . .

We say thanks to the postal people whose day-in, day-out delivery make it possible to receive your Herald among the hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail going to Cameron and area homes each year.

And we thank those businesses whose co-operation keep your Herald among the seven or eight Texas dailies distributed on newsstands around the Cen-Tex area we serve.

The U. S. post office has been undergoing evolution since 1971. Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar said during the holidays that the post office department is more efficient with 60,000 fewer workers and is showing its best financial balance since its reorganization.

But the postal service is no better than the men who place the envelopes and periodicals and packages in your mailbox. Faithfully, you find your Herald right there with the Thursday and Monday mail.

Because of the shift of population in the Cen-Tex rural areas, your Herald has gone to the communities as an alternative to reaching people who otherwise are so scattered in numbers and place. We are able to go to thousands of readers on the evenings and weekends when regular mail service is not running.

So during the holiday season, we join area postal workers and these distributors in saying Happy New Year, but especially thanks for their efforts which put your Herald in your hands as early as possible 104 times a year.

Lafferty Resigns As C of C Manager

Mrs. Cindy Lafferty, Cameron Area Chamber of Commerce manager for the past six months, has tendered her resignation to the board of directors effective Jan. 1.

The Chamber is taking applications for the position, with applicants to be interviewed on Jan. 9. The directors will make a decision on Jan. 10 at a regular board meeting.

Proposed County Budgets Show Spending Increase

Increased budgets proposed for 1979 by county officials would easily take care of additional revenue produced by increased valuations being placed on the county tax rolls by a current re-evaluation project.

If the county puts $90 million on the tax rolls, which would be $50 million more than it has on the rolls now, tax revenue collected would total $812,250. Total proposed budgets for the county offices are $708,992.45.

However, adjusting the variations in the salaries of elected officials and office workers may create a heed for additional revenues to $95 million valuations.

Of the ad valorem tax revenue, the law requires that $454,860 would go to the road and bridges funds with $357,390 going to the general fund. Fines, fees, other revenue and revenue sharing would add $406,778.11 to the general fund for a total of $764,178.

The road and bridge fund would also receive $234,600 from county court fines, vehicle registration and the lateral roads fund.

Salary increases are built into the county officials' budgets with officials' salaries ranging from $12,000 to $15,000. Officials have asked for salaries for secretaries ranging from $525 to $600.

Details of the proposed budgets:

County offices - county judge $23,966.05; county treasurer $11,465.85; county clerk $56,880.45; tax assessor-collector $100,703.01; tax evaluation project $16,540; county auditor $21,170; JP courts $48,908.09.

Law enforcement - sheriff's department $140,093.78; constables $23,442.94; probation officer $39,734.46; county attorney $29,056.

District court - district clerk $25,523.98; district court (court reporter and expenses) $21,897.

Services - veterans service officer $17,838.84; county extension office $24,168; health department $14,549; janitors $13,944.

General fund - other obligations (maintenance, postage, fire department contributions, ambulance service, library, audit expense, election expense, rent, dues, computer service, utilities, etc) $79,111.

Commissioners' budgets: Precinct 1 - $110,847; Precinct 2 - $148,689; Precinct 3 - $148,389; Precinct 4 - $124,471.98.

Death, Accidents Mar Holiday Weekend

One hunting accident death and a number of traffic accidents marred the otherwise peaceful Christmas weekend. The accident victim's mother lives in Cameron.

The victim, Floyd Ray Smith, 17, of Hearne, died in a Hearne hospital at 4 p.m. Monday after being shot in the back of the head with a .22 rifle while hunting.

Justice of the Peace Jack Matthews said it was apparently accidental.

Smith, whose mother is Mrs. Helen Galvan, and several companions were hunting between Calvert and Hearne. One youth was firing across the top of the car as Smith stepped from the car. The bullet struck Smith in the back of the head and he died shortly after arriving at the hospital. Funeral services were pending Monday.

Friday morning moderate damage was reported in a car-train accident four miles north of Milano. Driver of the car, Billy Ray Dotsey of Cameron was not injured. The Santa Fe train struck the car about 1 a.m.

Mrs. Frances McDermott of Cameron was hospitalized following a collision with a car driven by Gene Salach of Cameron at the intersection of 22nd St. and Highway 77 at Cameron. Mrs. McDermott suffered a forehead laceration. Salach received minor injuries.

Another accident Friday at 3:30 p.m. at the intersection of FM 2095 and Highway 77 injured Mrs. Belinda Scholtman of Rockdale. She was a passenger in a car driven by Christine Scholtman also of Rockdale. Their auto struck the rear of a station wagon driven by Jerry Gallimore of Cameron. Both were headed east.

Lonnie Hemphill of the Cameron area was injured around 6 a.m. Sunday when his auto struck a bridge near Branchville.

A Rosebud man, Sam Valasquez was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated after his car struck the Ladis Marek home at 606 N. Crockett early Christmas morning. No one was injured.

Monday morning at 12:26 there was a two-car accident east of the Little River Bridge on Highway 36. The cars were driven by Ronald Glaser of Ganado and David Watson of Kountze. Injured were Watson's small son who had a cut on the head, and Watson's wife who suffered a cut on the chin. Glaser was cut on his hand. The fire department was called to wash gasoline from the scene.

At 2 p.m. Monday Vicki Orsag, 18, of Buckholts, apparently lost control of her car on a gravel road north of Buckholts and struck several small trees. She received a bump on the head.

License Plate Renewal Different This Year

AUSTIN

License plate renewal notices for almost 11 million motor vehicles were in U.S. post offices throughout Texas for delivery to owners beginning the day after Christmas.

R. W. Townsley, director of the Motor Vehicle Division, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, said the renewal notices were stuffed into envelopes, pre-sorted by zip code, boxed and delivered to post offices to expedite delivery. Work to get the renewal notices ready for delivery started in early October.

"The plate renewals for passenger cars and light trucks (such as pickups) will be different from last year. A new law requires that renewal dates be spread as equally as possible over 12 months, rather than have all expire at one time (April 1) each year," Townsley said.

Since the Motor Vehicle Division does not maintain records by owner's name or birth date, the license number of the vehicle has been used to determine the month of registration renewal in the future.

Renewal notices have been issued to reflect the number of months and the prorated fee to be paid to register each vehicle under the new system.

A complete explanation of the new system is enclosed with each renewal notice for passenger cars and light trucks (one ton or less). It is imperative that vehicle owners not lose the registration notice as it must be presented at the county tax collection office to obtain new license plates.

Because of the new system, registration may take longer this first year than ever before. The new law authorizes county tax assessors - collectors to start processing the renewals a month early.

Your county tax assessor-collector is ready when you are -- any time starting with the county's first work day in 1978.

Firemen Answer Calls

The fire department answered calls to four grassfires over the weekend, two by the Marlow bridge Saturday at 11:45 a.m. and 10:30 p.m.; one to Dr. W. R. Newton's ranch south of Milano Saturday and one of the Salem road Sunday.

NNA Committee Taps Luecke For Membership

Frank M. Luecke, Herald editor-publisher, has been invited to join the Futures Committee of National Newspaper Association, according to William G. Mullen, executive vice-president of NNA.

Luecke and John Ahlhauser, electronic newspapers exponent from the University of Indiana, shared a program on "Electronic Delivery" during the 92nd annual NNA convention at Houston in October.

Luecke is also vice-chairman of NNA's Government Relations Committee for 1978, a member of Texas Press Association's executive committee and Texas chairman for NNA.

Richard Nafsinger of Oregon was 1977 Futures chairman. Membership includes Walter McKinney of Oregon and Walter Grunfeld of New York, both former NNA board chairmen and presidents.

Bank Files Application

The Citizens National Bank of Cameron has filed application with the Regional Comptroller of the Currency in Dallas for a new drive-in banking facility at 5th and Travis in Cameron. Action on the application is expected sometime in January.

Protest Group To Meet With Milam Farm Bureau

Representatives of the American Agriculture Movement will meet with President Derwood Tucker and board members of the Milam County Farm Bureau on Jan. 5 at 7 p.m., according to Ed Lehmann, a spokesman for the AAM in Milam County.

"There is no time in the history of our nation that we in agriculture need more unity and support. We can't afford fence straddling," Lehmann said.

His statement follows:

"Our demands for a fair increase are just and right, which are in the best interest of America. Farmers and ranchers with income would have tremendous purchasing power which would help keep the wheels of American industry turning, and all of America would benefit with very little extra cost for food.

"We must get into the mainstream of our American economy for America to sustain as a strong nation. We produce wealth that is renewable each year. This has been for too long ignored. But we are not sharing in this wealth.

"We have a ground swell of support which has been shown in our area, plus over the nation. We will have other protests and strike efforts in the County and nation after the holidays until we have 100 percent parity which will tie a unit of agriculture production to our minimum wage. Is a fair income for farmers too much to ask from aChristian nation? We are not asking for a subsidy, only fair market prices set by law, as our production represents hard work and toil just the same as other workers in America. Thank God for our press in America that we might awaken the consciousness of our people of good will to the injustices being suffered by those of us in agriculture because without the support of men and women of good will nothing can succeed. We know we have their support."

Moon Walk On Earth...

We are in total agreement with the article in Yoe Spirit of December 25 noting the importance of student discipline, self-motivaion and outside reading.

It is not only important there; it is critical. The grown-up child is the adult result of those early years. "What goes in comes out" and a hundred other cliches apply.

We recall the story of a student in a high school whose capacity went unchallenged, not at the fault of the school, but because he exceeded what even accelerated programs offered.

True, he was the exception, but his gifts went wanting because the outside discipline couldn't provide the framework for his personal disciplines and skills. That is a dangerous thing for bright teenagers. And he allowed those skills to atrophy to popularity and lack of challenge.

He was embittered to the point of saying such as: "If ignorance is bliss, you'd be the happiest person in the world." And this was to friends.

The basics work for the brightest as well as the less bright. And one of the basics is discipline, which has come to marshmallow status in the past generation.

The results show it. Students pass when they fail. They fault the system for their falure, not recognizing or choosing to ignore, we are all part of a system.

It is just about as difficult to fail as to succeed. Things are relatively easy in this country. In a large sense, they are too easy.

The only way to raise education standards or any other kind is to raise them. Intelligent discipline is not a goose step. It is a moon walk on earth.

Why We Are Here...

We are happy to learn from Milam area farmers that Herald coverage of organizational meetings for the Colorado-based American Agriculture in Thorndale and Cameron has attracted broad interest.

The tractor drive through Cameron before the Christmas weekend dramatized the point farmers are trying to make: things have gone about as far as many, if not all of them can tolerate.

We are told by some of these spokesmen, who are quick to note they are among a group with "no Indians and no chiefs, they received calls from various areas around the Milam area after being published in your Herald.

This type of response substantiates Herald claims to being a regional newspaper, though non-daily.

The farmer's economic problems are serious, but not beyond solution. What must happen is happening: people are communicating what in isolation they may have felt for years or even decades.

If your Herald can be of service in bringing people together to solve problems, it is a most rewarding service. Communications are precisely that: to let one another know what he or she thinks.

Our thanks for being informed we serve a useful function where it counts, when it counts.

It's why we are here.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear Editor:

The nice thing about making predictions for a new year is that a few months from now nobody remembers what they were anyway. But with Christmas over with and 1978 right in front of us the experts are at it again.

Some economists are predicting 1978 will be better, others that it'll be worse. They are both right. I've never seen a year yet that wasn't better and worse than the year before.

Personally, I think the coming year will be normal, like the weather, but you should keep in mind that the weather is normal only once in a while.

We'll have a cut in income taxes and a raise in Social Security taxes. A Congress that can't keep its left hand from knowing what its right hand is voting for is a Congress in trouble. Keeping the voters from knowing is the problem. But remember Congress has a hard row to hoe, which is why each member has a swarm of assistants to bring in the crop. It now costs about a million dollars a year to keep a Congressman in office, which seems fair, since some of them spent nearly that much to get there. If the price of farm products had risen as fast as the price of a Congressman, a lot of tractor mortgages would be paid off.

On the international scene, it looks like some progress toward peace is being made and leaders in Washington are saying it's time to beat swords into plowshares. Couldn't they beat them into something else? At least till we get rid of the grain surplus?

I'm afraid I'm being too hard on Congress. Congress is doing the best it can with what it's got to work with, and when I look around I can't figure anybody among us who'd do much better.

My resolution for 1978 is that I'm going to find something good to say about Congress, I don't care if it takes me till October or November to find it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dateline Austin...

New Poll Has Candidates For Races Buzzing

A new poll covering major statewide races has candidates buzzing as the holiday season nears an end and tough campaigning looms ahead.

The 808-voter telephone sampling by Henson and Associates of Austin for U.S. Senate Candidate Bob Krueger showed veteran Republican Sen. John Tower ahead of Krueger 49 per cent to 39 with 13 per cent undecided. Voters who know both candidates well, however, were evenly divided—46 to 46 per cent.

Tower led both Krueger and Joe Christie, the other Democratic contender, widely in name identification. Seventy-five per cent of the voters surveyed could identify Tower, while 23 per cent recognized Christie's name and 21 per cent knew Krueger.

The poll showed Tower leading Christie 52 per cent to 34 among all voters interviewed and 56 per cent to 36 per cent among voters who know both candidates. It placed Krueger ahead of Christie 30 to 22 among the entire sampling and 35 per cent to 24 per cent among those voters who said they would probably vote Democratic. Voters who said they knew both Democratic candidates preferred Krueger to Christie 55 to 31 per cent.

Differing considerably from an earlier poll done for Attorney General John Hill, the Henson survey showed Gov. Dolph Briscoe ahead of Hill 43 per cent to 28 per cent, with eight per cent for former Gov. Preston Smith and 21 per cent undecided. The poll commissioned by Hill last October showed him only four per cent behind Briscoe among all voters interviewed, eight per cent back among those voters likely to vote Democratic.

The new poll gave Price Daniel Jr. a 38 per cent to 23 per cent lead over Mark White in the attorney general's race.

Forty-seven per cent of the voters interviewed approved Carter's performance, 30 per cent disapproved, and 15 per cent were neutral. Eight per cent expressed no opinion on Carter.

Road Plan Approved

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has approved a plan to guide highway reconstruction, rehabilitation and construction over the next two decades.

Projects in the first five years of the plan are cleared for right of way buying and construction. Most of them previously had some form of commission approval. Those in the second five-year segment are cleared for advance planning study only and will require additional commission action. Projects in the final decade of the plan carry no authorizations or approval. They are included as work that seems to be needed to have a complete, connected statewide highway system within the next 20 years. The plan is subject to regular review and evaluation.

Sales Setting Record

Gross sales in Texas by merchants and other sales tax permit holders climbed to $40.3 billion during the second quarter of the year.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said the figure is $6.3 billion or 18.8 per cent over the same three months period in 1976.

Sales in metropolitan Harris County alone totalled $10.5 billion, a $2.4 billion increase over last year.

Hospitals To Stay Open

Top federal officials have assured Gov. Briscoe that new federal health planning guidelines will not force any Texas hospitals to close.

Briscoe announced on return from Washington, D.C., that Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and other federal officials gave the promise and pledged to work with state officials to revise the guidelines reflecting Texas concerns.

Refunds Due

Eight thousand Texans who bought 1977 Oldsmobiles, Buicks and Pontiacs which had Chevrolet engines may be getting $200 refunds from General Motors.

The rebates result from an agreement between attorneys general of 45 states and General Motors. Texans will get a total of about $3 million in the largest consumer protection agreement in history.

They will also have their warranties extended from 12 months or 12,000 miles to three years or 36,000 miles. GM must post stickers on the cars telling the type engine installed. GM admits no wrong-doing in switching engines without notifying customers of the fact.

Production Wide Open

One hundred per cent oil production was continued for January in a new Railroad Commission order.

Only exception to the wide-open allowable was the East Texas Field, held to 86 per cent production.

The commission's meeting was the final one for Jim Langdon who has resigned after 14 years' service and will be succeeded by John Poerner on January 3.

Commission Chairman Mack Wallace noted foreign crude oil imports are down 500,000 barrels per day over last year.

Power Sale Cleared

Altering an earlier rule, Public Utility Commission finally cleared the way for utilities with surplus generating capacity to sell power to others at cost less than that of generation by the purchaser.

The rule change made it possible for Lower Colorado River Authority to make economy purchases of power from Texas Electric Service Company at peak periods of power use. It, in effect, allows LCRA to pass on to customers the TESCO base charge for a sale as well as fuel-adjustment costs.

Short Snorts

Gov. Briscoe, after conversations with Carter administration representatives and congressmen, expressed confidence a federal energy bill can be passed that will include production incentives for natural gas omitted from Carter's original recommendations.

Republican State Chairman Ray Barnhart said the GOP will field serious candidates for most major statewide offices, at least seven congressional seats and a dozen legislative places.

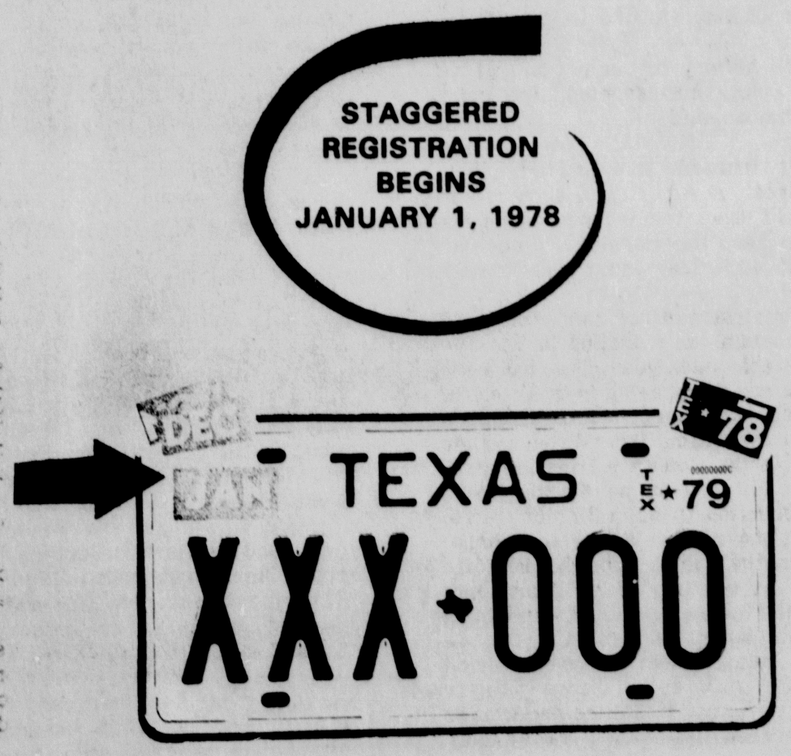
William D. Decker of Dickinson was named judge of the 122nd district court of Galveston County.

Benjamin N. Woodson of Houston is a new University of Houston regent.

The Railroad Commission granted Missouri-Pacific Railroad Company's application to discontinue and dismantle agency station houses at Vanderbilt and Atlanta.

Only Virginia has a higher percentage of lawyers among its legislature than does Texas.

STAGGERED REGISTRATION BEGINS JANUARY 1, 1978



Just because Texans produce more goods doesn't mean Texans have to produce more accidents.

Tops in cattle.
Tops in oil.
Tops in cotton.

Texans, in fact, are some of the most productive individuals in this country.

We produce more sheep and lambs than anyone. Texans have more goats. More grain. The most mineral production. We are the leading producer of helium. We produce the most crushed stone, the most salt, the most sulphur, the most watermelons.

We are second in the nation in the production of rice. We even rank third in portland cement production, fourth in wholesale and retail sales, and fourth in the value of our manufacturing.

Texans are busy and Texas is booming.

Crashes in the big boom.

And while Texans are spending long hours on the road to success, Texans are also spending long hours on the road.

This big, booming state has more total street, highway and Interstate mileage than any other state in the nation.

Some eight million Texas drivers are driving nine million motor vehicles over ninety billion miles a year.

Sadly, too many of these Texans don't finish their journeys.

In 1976, for example, while most Texans were busy making Texas productive, 3,230 of us didn't make it at all.

That's how many Texans lost their lives on Texas highways.

That's one person killed every 2¾ hours.

That's 3.5 deaths for every 100 million vehicle miles traveled.

That's a shame.

It's a shame that, although Texas traffic fatalities are at the lowest level in our history, Texas is still above the national average.

It's a shame that Texans aren't taking greater pride in their own worth and their own lives.

It's a shame that Texans aren't more careful.

Please. Be proud. Be careful. Help us keep the roads to success safe.

For your sake.

Glaser, a native of Buckholts graduated from Buckholts High School in 1960 and was a winner of a Rockdale Rotary Club scholarship to Temple Junior College. After attending TJC for one year he transferred to the University of Texas at Austin where he received his BA degree in 1964 and Doctor of Jurisprudence degree in 1967.

Having been admitted to the Bar, Glaser joined the firm of Ellett and Camp, practicing law in Rockdale and Cameron. He was made a partner in 1971 and the firm renamed Ellett, Camp and Glaser. He is a member of the Milam County Bar, the State Bar of Texas and the American Bar Association.

Since establishing his residence in Rockdale in 1967, Glaser has been an active nivic leader. He is presently serving as a member of the Rockdale ISD school board and is on the board of directors of Richards Memorial Hospital.

Glaser is married to the former Saundra Fuller of Cameron and they have three children, Julie, Steven and Allyson. The family makes its home at 1919 Redbud.

Other RSB directors are Mike Allen, Frank Anderson, Emory C. Camp, W. P. Hogan and Dr. John T. Richards.

Milano

By Jeanne Williams

Milano's new kindergarten classes will begin January 3. Supt. Charlie Martin said that students planning to attend must have been five on or before September 1 of this year. Martin said students must have a birth certificate and health record.

The Milano ISD tax office will be open December 29 and 30 from 8:30 am. to 3:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Warrington of Angleton have returned home after a few weeks stay in Brazil. Mrs. Warrington is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odie Mills of Milano.

The Milano City Council has postponed its December meeting. The next meeting has been set for January 5.

Guests of Mrs. R. L. Myrick last week were Mrs. Don Duvall of Dripping Springs, and Nick Brennon and son Jeff of Austin.

Funeral service for former Milano merchant and businessman Alton (Buddy) Baggett was held Friday in Dallas. Mr. Baggett was the brother of Jim Baggett.

Briscoe Ahead, According To Statewide Poll

Governor Dolph Briscoe is beginning his campaign for re-election with a wide lead in the Democratic primary, according to a new statewide poll conducted by a candidate in another race.

The survey was taken by Henson-Hopkins Associates of Austin for U. S. Rep. Bob Krueger's campaign for the Senate. Other races were also sampled and results of the entire poll were released by the Krueger campaign.

The survey, conducted in December, showed that Briscoe's lead among likely Democratic voters is 43% against 28% for John Hill and 8% for Preston Smith. The remaining 21% were listed as undecided.

Among voters identified as "strong" Democrats, the Governor's lead rose to 48% against 25% for Hill, 6% for Smith and 21% undecided.

The results among all voters, regardless of political affiliation, were 41% for Briscoe, 27% for Hill, 7% for Smith, 24% undecided and 1% refusing to say.

Junior Livestock Show Set For Two Days In Exposition Building

By: Dennis Tomascik
Livestock Association Chairman

The Milam County Junior Livestock Show will be held early in the New Year in a new building and with new schedules and new exhibits. This is the first year in the New Youth Exposition Building.

The 1978 Junior Show is scheduled for a two-day affair January 13th and 14th. All of the market animals will be judged on the 13th. This includes Market Lambs, Market Hogs, Steers, and Broilers. Breeding Sheep, Breeding Swine, and Breeding Rabbits will also be judged Friday.

Saturday judging will include Beef Heifers and Dairy.

The Cameron Chamber of Commerce Broiler Show was combined with the Junior Show this year. A breeding rabbit show was also included and turkey exhibits will be on display.

A premium sale is planned for the 1978 show. Five steers, five lambs, five market hogs, and give pens of broilers are to be offered in the premium sale.

The Milam County Livestock Association hopes that everyone will visit the 1978 show and also support the premium sale of 4-H and FFA projects. The sale is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. January 14th at the Youth Exposition Building.

Committee To Study Alternate Agricultural Energy Sources

The House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock of the Texas Legislature is conducting a study of alternate sources of energy for agricultural use and production.

A special subcommittee has been formed for this purpose with State Rep. Bill Keese of Somerville as chairman. Other members of the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee participating in this study include Susan McBee of Del Rio, Luther Jones of El Paso, Bill Coody of Weatherford, Dan Kubiak of Rockdale and Elmer Martin of Colorado City.

Keese is calling together those persons from the public who are concerned about the energy dilemma and its impact upon Texas agriculture, to give testimony to the subcommittee in a public hearing on Monday, January 23 of next year. The public hearing will take place in the old Supreme Court Room of the State Capitol building in Austin at 9 a.m. that day.

"It's the desire of the subcommittee that people of our agricultural communities will take the time and express their problems fears and concerns relating to the energy dilemma" Keese noted. "The policies of the State cannot continue as 'business as usual' without negative consequences to the State and particularly, agriculture."

Keese related that Texas agriculture because of its dependence upon conventional fuels, is very vulnerable to potentially unstable energy supplies.

Various reports, including those by the Texas Energy Advisory Council and the Center for Energy and Mineral Resources at Texas A&M, indicate a shakey future for Texas agriculture.

Keese noted that alternate sources of energy have been available from agricultural producers for some time, but have not been developed or utilized because of once-inexpensive petroleum fuels. "Farmers work with alternate fuels everyday but are sinply not made aware of such. Many aspects of solar technology can be found on the farm"

"In the course of our study we shall see what is available from alternate sources and to what extent we can shift our reliance from depletable to non-depletable sources, such as biomass conversion, wind power and other solar energy technologies, that now exist."

"Much of the so-called "waste" that is generated today, municipal solid wastes, residues from agricultural production and the need for water treatment, can be recovered as energy and other useful by-products."

"Again, the subcommittee invited all interested persons to participate and express their concerns at this January 23rd Public Hearing in Austin," Keese concluded.

County Agent Notes:

Tough Time Seen For Farms, Ranches

By Bill McCutchen
Milam County Extension Agent

Not a very Merry Christmas--I'm sorry to say it, but a lot of my friends won't be having a very Merry Christmas this year. Farmers and ranchers have had an exceedingly tough time of it for the past three years.

You know it's tough when agricultural producers start talking strike. Strike has been a word that most of them despise and I'm sure that none of them ever thought they would be participating in one.

Farmers and ranchers cherish their independence. Things have had to be tough to unify this independent group.

-- Are you thinking about planting a pecan or pecan trees this winter?

There are several important items to consider. Among the most important is the variety. Disease resistance is even more important than productive ability or quality.

Varieties that I would recommend for the Milam County area include quality, productive ability and disease resistance. Desirable, Choctaw, Cheyenne, and Shawnee have rated well in all categories to date. Kiowa may also be worthy of trial.

In purchasing a tree, don't buy an enormous one. A 5 to 6 foot tree will perform well. Select one with ample feeder roots, do not worry much about the tap root. Make sure the roots have not dried out. Also avoid any that show signs of galls or disease.

Select trees early and set them out early. The root system will have time to establish before the initiation of growth in the Spring.

New Import Policy Good For Cattlemen

FORT WORTH

U. S. cattlemen will benefit from Japan's recent decision to increase beef imports, says J. A. Whittenburg III, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

The Amarillo rancher considers the announcement particularly significant to Texas, the nation's leader in all areas of beef production. TSCAR, a Fort Worth-based producers group, represents 14,000 cattlemen in Texas and surrounding states.

"Twenty months ago, TSCRA helped create and finance the U.S. Meat Export Federation, Inc. an industry-wide organization for the promotion and expansion of overseas sales of U. S. meat and meat by-products.

"The Denver-based operation, headed by President Alan R. (Bud) Middaugh, has placed particular emphasis on developing the Japanese market. In January or early February 1978, USMEF will open an office in Tokyo with its Asian director Dr. L. B. (Bert) Tennison as fulltime representative.

"Japan's reversal of longstanding policy, which we considered too restrictive on beef imports, coincides perfectly with his arrical. Things now look good for a substantial increase in the U. S. share of the Japanese beef import market and that makes the USMEF office in Japan even more vital," Whittenburg says.

In 1976, Japan imported 94,000 tons of beef. The U. S. provided slightly more than 12.5 per cent while Australia accounted for more than 80 per cent.

In November 1977, USMEF reported the U. S. trade deficit with Japan was $8 billion.

How to MAKE WORKING for peanuts PAY OFF by George Washington CARVER.

George Washington Carver made more than 300 products from peanuts. By doing so he revolutionized the agriculture of the South. And he made working for peanuts pay off.

Today, folks who buy U.S. Savings Bonds know how to turn peanuts into cold, hard cash. When you buy Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan, you're letting those hard-earned dollars you make work for you automatically.

Lo-Vaca Order Won't Affect Lone Star Gas

DALLAS

Lone Star Gas Company officials have learned the Railroad Commission of Texas entered a final order, which, in effect, denies Lo-Vaca Gathering Company relief from their various gas sales contracts, including a gas sales contract to Lone Star Gas Company.

Lo-Vaca an affiliate of Coastal States Gas Corporation, has been delivering natural gas to Lone Star Gas Company and others, mostly in South Texas, under an interim order issued by the Railroad Commission which permitted Lo-Vaca to charge rates substantially in excess of contractual rates between it and its customers.

Lone Star Gas Company officials further understand that Lo-Vaca was ordered along with Coastal States Gas Corporation and Coastal States Gas Producing Company to refund all monies received from its customers in excess of contract rates since the date of the interim order. In view of the likelihood of an appeal to the courts, it is impossible to predict what amount of money, if any, Lo-Vaca would ultimately be required to refund.

L. B. Hulcy, president of Lone Star Gas Company, stated that he had not reviewed the order, but that the long-term availability of gas to Lone Star customers is not expected to be materially affected.

Warm Wool Offers Savings In Energy Use

COLLEGE STATION

Wool traps warmth, shed water and can save energy, says Marlene Odel-Kemp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Wearing apparel that uses wool fiber makes cold weather and lower thermostats more tolerable, she says.

"Unlike other fibers, wool has a natural crimp which holds air in the fabric and provides a warm insulation, so wearing many thin layers of wool clothing traps more air and gives even more warmth.

"Wool's ability to shed rain drops before they penetrate the fabric is another unique quality," the specialist says.

Also, wool still retains its warming characteristic although it finally will absorb moisture when large amounts of it come into contact with the fiber.

Taxes Reduced On Phone Bills

Reduced federal excise taxes will save Southwestern Bell customers in Texas an estimated $17.3 million in 1978, according to Dennis Richter, manager.

"Beginning January 1, the federal excise tax on telephone service will be reduced from 5 percent to 4 percent," he said. "Under a schedule established by federal law, the tax will continue to drop 1 percent each year until it expires January 1, 1982."

A federal excise tax -- once as high as 25 percent on Long Distance in the 1940's -- has been imposed on charges for communication services since 1914. Congress reduced most of the taxes to 10 percent in 1954. A 1970 act established the 1 percent per year reduction, which began in 1972.

New Use For Old Toys

By Donald J. Frederick
National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON

Kids, beware of your toys, especially if they're old hand-me-downs. A sneaky grown-up may lure them away from you.

Nostalgia, a booming antique market, and general inflation have created a soaring demand for old toys, the National Geographic Society reports.

Doll houses, toy banks, electric trains are all hot items. Mechanical playthings dating from the 19th centure command a premium. A bank shaped like a firehouse so enthralled one collector that he paid $500 for it. At the insertion of a coin, a gong sounds, the doors fly open, and a horse-drawn firewagon pops out.

Bring Big Money

A slae of antique toys in Los Angeles managed by a prestigious British auction house recently brought in more than $31,000. Other toy auctions are planned in Europe, the United States and Japan.

To the avid collector money isn't everything. "Gathering old toys," said one devotee, "is like stamp collecting. There's more interest to it, because there's a history behind each item. They don't become obsolete the way os don't become obsolete the way so many modern toys do."

Few of the faithful who rummage through antique stores, flea markets, and house sales expect to find playthings in mint collto find playthings in mind condition.

On the contrary, there seems to be even more of a demand for well-loved sagging teddy bears with patchy fur then for unmarred ones with plush skins and plump bodies.

As one folklorist commented: "A toy in perfect condition is a pathetic thing. The toy which never knew the delight of a child has lost some of the essence that gives it meaning and genuine value."

Adults and children alike lavished love on toys in Colonial times. Most of the tiny animals, doll houses, carts, and rocking horses were hand-crafted by devoted fathers for their offspring. Once in a while if a settler could affort it, he splurged on a sophisticated toy from Europe.

Factories Took Over

As the United States filled up and people moved closer together, child's play became more organized and complicated.

The 19th century brought "tin toys" made first by the local blacksmith, then by factories. They were small realistic models of everything from stoves to trains. Some factories turned out sleds, wagons, croquet sets, and doll houses.

The toy or mechanical bank craze started sometime in the 1870s. Clowns swallowed coins and rolled their eyes. A deposit encouraged dogs to wag their tails, and the right piece of moeny placed in an eagle's mouth flapped the bird's wings.

Not long ago one budding collector thought he had found a real treasure. It was a classic 19th-century bucking mule bank. The mule kicks a coin into an open barn door and a small dog sppears. The collector's joy was short-lived. When he examined the bottom of his acquisiton, he saw: Made in Taiwan.

For more than a century, Southerners have observed the New Year's tradition of eating black-eyed peas.

There are countless tales explaining why you should eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day. One thing ties them all together. The small cream-colored pea--actually a bean -- with a "black eye" in the center, is supposed to bring good luck.

The earliest folklore centers around post Civil War days when a scorched earth policy of Sherman's northern invaders left most of the South's countryside bleak and bare. Many a southern family was considered lucky to have black-eyed peas, cornbread, and a bit of hog jowl to put on the table.

Smokehouses and granaries were prime target of passing troops. Since hog jowl was the least inviting, most meatless part of a hog, these were often left. Not much to brag about, but it does season a pot of black-eyed peas delightfully.

Another bit of folklore has it that General Sam Houston ate a big meal of black-eyed peas and hog jowl on the evening before the battle of San Jacinto. Maybe Texas owes her independence to the misnamed bean.

One farmer who was down on his luck is said to have eaten black-eyed peas on New Year's Day. The next day, with gloom thought of the coming years, he started working on a fence. While digging a posthole, he unearthed a pot of Spanish gold doubloons.

Folklore also promises that a person will earn a dollar for every pea he eats on New Year's Day. At this rate, even if you ate a dozen tablespoonfuls, you would only make a thousand dollars next year. When this tale started, a yearly income of a thousand dollars was considerably above average. Many a southern planter would have been delighted with it.

When this folklore first started, thrifty families waited for the last crop of peas to dry on the stalk before picking them, because there was no other way to preserve them. After picking and shelling, the peas were dried in the sun before storeing.

Black-eyed peas may not be capable of all the powers folk tales have endowed them with, but they are a hearty food.

Dry peas are an excellent source of carbohydrates, which are used for energy. They also contain some B vitamins and significant amounts of iron, calcium, and protein.

When buying dried black-eyed peas look for bright, uniform color. Loss of color indicates long storage, lack of freshness, and a product that requires longer cooking. However, eating quality is not affected.

You will want to purchase peas of uniform size because mixed sizes will result in uneven cooking.

Avoid peas with cracked seed coats, pinholes caused by insect damage and foreign material.

In addition to dried peas, you can also find them in canned and frozen forms. But, according to the purist, the dry black-eyed peas bring the most good luck.

TURKEY PERISHABLE

Turkey is perishable, so take it home quickly after purchase and put it in the refrigerator or freezer immediately. In warm weather, transport it in the air-conditioned section of the car, not the trunk.

Million Wild Geese Expected For Season

A million wild geese are winging their way into Texas again this winter to gladden the hearts of hunters.

Early estimates by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department waterfowl biologists call for about the same number of birds as in the past two years -- but still there are reasons for concern for the magnificent birds' future.

It may be surprising to some that hunting pressure is not the biggest concern -- not by a long shot.

Continued loss of nesting habitat in the north; increased leveling of fields along the Texas gulf coast; intensified land use and urban sprawl, especially in the areas west of Houston; early ploughing-under of grain fields; loss of marshland; disease loss aggravated by dry weather and subsequent crowding on bacteria-rich lakes and streams are just some of the factors which threaten geese, biologist C. D. Stutzenbaker said in a recent report.

If that's not enough, the controversial "short-stopping" of geese in certain refuge areas may have reduced the number of birds flying to Texas. Department biologists believe the feeding of large concentrations of geese on refuges to the north of Texas may have altered some birds' migration habits by enticing them to winter there instead of the traditional wintering areas along the coast.

Also worrisome to biologists are the vulnerability of the "young of the year" birds to gun harvest, and the vulnerability of certain species of geese compared to others.

This points up the fact that -- as many veteran goose hunters know -- the "dark" geese are easier to decoy and call up than the "white" species (blue and snow geese).

In fact, biologists note, snows and blues have even prospered to the point of overcrowding some of their Canadian nesting areas.

So smart and wary are the blues and snows that hunters along the Texas coast are trying full-bodied goose decoys instead of scattering white rags in the fields -- and some are even resorting to sailing paper plates or flying white kites to simulate geese landing in the decoy spread.

Another "vulnerability" finding of the study was that "young of the year" geese -- regardless of the species -- make up a startlingly large percentage of the harvest every year. Of the 1,767 geese checked at the picking stations, 79 percent were young birds.

This high harvest of immature birds remains fairly constant, even when their numbers are relatively lower within the total population. "In 1973-74, when immatures made up 54 percent of the total population, they accounted for 89 percent of the harvest," Stutzenbaker said, "and in the poor production year of 1974-75 when immature geese made up only 27 percent of the total population, they still accounted for 69 percent of the harvest."

In other words, an old goose is a smart goose, and the ones which survive that first year stand a good chance of living as long as 10 or 12 years.

The vulnerability of yearlings and the relative vulnerability of "dark" geese compared to "white" ones both concern the department whenever bag limits and other regulations are adopted. The closing of the season on "dark" geese from Dec. 15 through Dec. 21 east of Hwy. 81 this year was one step taken to ease the gun pressure on these species. The season on geese continues through Jan. 22 statewide.

Shooting regulations are important, biologists say, but the loss of vital nesting habitat and other environmental factors are the greatest impediments to future expansion of goose populations.

Yoe Girls Lose To Snook; Set Practice Time

The Cameron Yoe High girls gave up their last games with Snook December 20. The Junior Varsity lost 26-20 and the Varsity lost against the strong Snook team 58-42.

The Yoe girls will not have any games during the holidays. However coach Linda Puckett advised that both the JV and Varsity teams are practicing daily from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

The next game for the Yoe girls will be January 3 at Thorndale. The next district game for the girls will be on January 6 at Rockdale. The next scheduled home game will be with Elgin.

Coach Puckett said that the JV team is playing a 5 man full court while the Varsity team is playing a 6 man half court this year.

Game Warden Applications Taken

Persons interested in becoming Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens may submit applications during January and February, 1978, to the department, an equal opportunity employer, for the 33rd game warden school next fall.

Deadline for receiving applications will be Feb. 28, 1978. The application forms are available from department regional or district offices or from headquarters, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin 78744.

Oral interviews will be held in various regions of the state during April. In July, a selected number of applicants from each region will be interviewed in Austin before the final selection is made.

No definite date has been set for the school, but it will intervene in the fall of 1978.

Yoeman Travel To Tournament

The Cameron Yoe High boys basketball team scheduled one tournament over the Christmas holidays at Waco Midway. The Yoemen were scheduled to play West at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, December 27. Other games were to be played according to Cameron's standing following the Tuesday game.

Coach Ken Poole explained that a win would put Cameron in position to play the winner of the Hamilton-Midway game at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. The Yoemen would also play at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday with a win.

If the Yoemen should lose the West game, they would play at 9 a.m. with the loser of the Hamilton - Midway game and would play again at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Yoemen would go into final play Thursday at 8 p.m. if the team advanced into the finals of the 14 team tournament.

The first district game for the Yoemen was with Hearne December 20 which Cameron won 58-53. The next district game will be Tuesday January 3 at Manor. The next home game will be January 6 when the Yoemen meet Rockdale.

The Yoemen stand at 9 wins and 6 losses for the year.

Yesterday is gone. We tear its page from our calendar, for we live in the present.

But often we look back with nostalgia to the many yesterdays which make up the past. In a different mood we plan for the uncertain days ahead, sometimes filling them with happy expectations, sometimes with anxious forebodings.

Where is God in this time pattern of our lives?

Is He in the past alone, incarnate two thousand years ago in the great Teacher of Nazareth? Or does He walk with us through the present, our Companion each day? Does He remove all fear from the future with His promise, the promise of the living Christ, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world?"

Come to Church and learn to know this Christ who is "the same yesterday, today, and forever."

HAPPY NEW YEAR
From Your Friends
at Minimax

Happy New Year

Put some punch in your holiday plans by making several different kinds for the holiday weekend coming up. Here are a couple of ideas to help.

Instead of ice, freeze some of the punch ahead of time. When ready to serve, the "ice" will not dilute the flavors.

Carol Scroggins
CAROL SCROGGINS
DIRECTOR OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS

Cold Fiesta Drink

3 c. pineapple orange juice drink
3 c. cranberry juice
1—12 oz. can lemon/lime soda
orange and lemon slices ¼" thick
Fiesta ice cubes
Combine all ingredients except fruit and ice. Make 1 tray of ice cubes with ½ of punch. Chill punch until time to use, pour chilled punch over fruit slices and Fiesta ice cubes.

Maybe you'd prefer something hot, like:

Spiced Party Punch

4 c. cranberry juice cocktail
4 c. unsweetened pineapple juice
2 c. water
½ c. packed brown sugar
2 tsp. whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon broken
⅛ tsp. salt
Combine juices, water and sugar in an electric coffee percolator. Put spices and salt in percolator basket. Place basket in pot and perk as for coffee.
